A: If the format of each file is consistent, you can try using a regex to strip the string. In python, this code will do: import re re.sub(r'\[(-?\d+)\]', "", pcapfile_to_clean)

Activation of G-protein coupled receptors results in sequential second messenger and chemokine generation, which may play important roles in the initiation of mammalian cell activation and immune modulation. The second messenger and chemokine signal transduction pathways are an important focus in the study of mammalian cell activation and immune modulation. It is a focus of the PI's research to understand how G-protein coupled receptors (GPCR) are activated and that results in initiation of second messenger and chemokine production. The GPCR component that is most well characterized is the beta2-adrenergic receptor. This receptor mediates the response to the physiological (beta2-agonist) and toxic (beta-antagonist) catecholamines, and as a result, plays a central role in bronchoconstriction, cardiovascular function, energy metabolism and glucose disposal. The PI has been active in establishing molecular approaches to studying GPCR activation of the beta2-adrenergic receptor. One of these

I am trying to make the first day of the week the first day of the week from a date range. I have a date column, date_start_datetime, which contains the date range and in another table called datestart I have the first day of the week (which is Sunday). I have tried this: select firstday(date_start_datetime, 0) from datestart; But I get the error: ORA-00904: "FIRSTDAY": invalid identifier How can I get the first day of the week using a select statement? A: You can't use FIRSTDAY as a function Have a look at documentation for FUNCTION syntax: When you use the FUNCTION keyword, Oracle Database lets you create a standard function. Standard functions let you create deterministic functions without having to list the arguments explicitly. You can create a function with the following syntax: FUNCTION [function_name () [{ function_arg [, function_arg [,...]] }] [[{ RETURN_expr }]] [EXPRESSION] Examples of Function Syntax FUNCTION GENERIC_FUNCTION returns the absolute difference between two dates. FUNCTION abs (date_1, date_2) returns the absolute difference between two dates. FUNCTION add_months (date_value, number_of_months) returns a date value. Use of X-TRACK 1.00 version for background generation in chromosome painting. X-TRACK 1.00 is a tool for the production of background tracks in chromosome painting. It can be applied to any species in which the linkage information is available in form of a linkage map or DNA marker positions. In this chapter, we describe the implementation of the X 04aeff104c
