KeyMACRO is a convenient and feature-rich macro tool which allows you to automate most actions of your browsing session. Changelog: * The site is still under active development. Changes to the interface and functions will be made in future releases. * Changes will be posted on this page. To be notified of such changes, subscribe to the KeyMACRO newsletter. * The version number will change. Read the Help file for further information.

Usage: To use KeyMACRO, first download it from the "Home" button and then extract it. Next, open the application (double-click on the file). KeyMACRO will open and, if it is not already running, it will be started in the background. To run it, go to the Edit menu, select Preferences and add KeyMACRO to the list of extensions. It is not necessary to install KeyMACRO as a browser extension; it is possible to use it even if KeyMACRO is not installed in the browser. To confirm this, open the Help menu and check the "Use a browser extension" box. * The toolbar displays the key's main features. You can use it to change several settings. The menus are located on the left side of the toolbar. To the right, you can see the information about the current key or a key that was saved. * To start a new key, click on the "New" button. To save a new key as a template, click on the "Save as Template" button. To edit a key, click on the key's name. The properties will be displayed in the toolbar. Click on the "Options" button to change the settings. The help page contains a complete description of all options. * To exit the application, click on the "Exit" button on the toolbar. * The Keyboard Shortcuts window allows you to assign the keys to be used to execute the features. * In the Options window, you can change the settings, set the key's properties, enter the characters, select a file to use as a key, change the theme and activate the pop-up blocker. * Clicking on the "Options" button in the Keyboard Shortcuts window changes the settings. * The Help window contains a complete description of all features. System requirements: KeyMACRO supports Windows 2000, XP, Vista and later. Licensing: KeyMACRO is Free and Open Source. The terms of the license are set forth 2edc1e01e8

Your ultimate browser add-on for enhancing your browsing experience and stopping intrusive scripts from running on the web pages you visit.

Extended Your ultimate browser add-on for enhancing your browsing experience and stopping intrusive scripts from running on the web pages you visit. Version: 1.0.2 License: GNU General Public License 2.0 Vendor: - Changelog: - Installation: The installation is straightforward. You simply download the file and double-click on the file to install it. Use: When you start the browser, the extension automatically activates itself. You will see a small window where you can choose between the options "Trusted" and "Untrusted". If you want to do more than just browse in "Untrusted" mode, then you can do it by using the "Options" window. Easy to install and configure. What the author says about the extension: Use it! It works the way it should. Still no solution for IE 9 on Windows 8.1, however, it works for Windows 7 and 8 as far as i can see. It is really convenient, you can block as many scripts as you want and easily decide if the script is approved or not, you can block a script by clicking it or you can block everything by default, no risk. I tried to do some research on this, there is nothing about it in google and even more, there is no mention of this in any wiki or forums. Works great with Windows 7. However, there are some settings and functionality that were removed with Windows 8 and 9. I use the settings on my Windows 8 computer which works fine, and on my Windows 7 computer which does not work. When I tried to add the settings again in the Windows 7 installation, it gave me an error saying that I did not have permissions to add extensions. Other than that, it is a great extension. I had problems with this extension crashing Firefox. I suggest disabling add-ons before testing extensions. Also, there is an option to show all the add-ons in the toolbar. I use this extension so the toolbar doesn't fill the screen, and I disabled the option to show add-ons in toolbar. The extension author should pay more attention to Windows 8, 8.1

and 9. If you don't like the default settings, you won't be able to configure the

What's New in the?

NoScript is an extension for Mozilla Firefox, designed to prevent JavaScript and Flash scripts from being executed by your browser. This tool can bring extra protection to your browser by blocking clickjacking and other potential threats. Non-intrusive Firefox add-on You are not bothered by warning messages since the extension works in the background and stops the scripts that can be dangerous for your computer. You can configure the extension to display a short report with the blocked scripts in the add-on toolbar. If you would like to be notified when a script is blocked, then you can enable the audio feed back. Manage permissions by creating lists It is possible to select the websites you do not want to be affected by restrictions by adding them to a whitelist. It is a very easy to import a list of domains from a text file and you can also export the list if you want to back up the information. All privileges can be revoked if you want to be notified about all blocked items. The types of scripts can be allowed or blocked from the "Options" window. If you are on a webpage and there are some important functions disabled by the extension, then it is possible to unblock the script temporarily with just a few clicks. Trust or untrust websites, and other advanced settings Some restrictions, such as blocking incoming objects, can be applied even to domains on the whitelist. If you have doubts about a certain website, then it can be marked as untrusted and subjected to additional restrictions. Advanced users can limit untrusted websites in order to increase the extension's efficiency. You can use this section to create Anti-XSS (cross-site scripting) protection exceptions or to use external filters to check the webpage. Conclusion Overall, the extension is a very useful tool that allows you to browse the Internet with less interference from malicious scripts. It is mostly designed for experienced users, though. System Requirements For NoScript For Firefox:

Campaign Mode I'm a little late to the party, but I finally got around to playing through the free DLC for Crysis 2, but even with the free game, there's a lot of features the game has and this is just the tip of the iceberg. Basically, I played through the campaign as a heavy resistance, and built an urban fortress using the drones and turrets. I kept plenty of live ammo in my magazines, and I'm using the suppressor. I keep two clips of ammo in reserve, and one clip
